

Nathan Prisk, Head of IT, University College Falmouth

Nathan Prisk is University College Falmouth's Head of IT. He has worked in IT and communications for 20 years and with the last 10 years in Higher Education.

He has overseen the moves of the Institution from one with no network to the recent £600k Cisco deployment taking it to one of the most advanced small HEIs in the country (For the time being!)

He specialises in content and video distribution over networks and is a member of the Janet Voice Advisory Group.

He lives in Cornwall but is also a proud "Cornishman"
